Today's organ music:

Prelude: Prelude, Fugue, and Variation, Op. 18 by César Franck (1822-1890). In 1858 Franck was appointed organist at the basilica of St. Clotilde in Paris. Franck's organ playing was an opportunity for him to pour out his faith into celestial harmonies, and he set some of them down in the Prelude, Fugue, and Variation, Op. 18 (1860). The flowing B-minor Prelude has a gentle melancholy, the Fugue uses the modified theme of the Prelude, and the Variation is a repeat of the Prelude with a more active accompaniment, fading into the light of a gentle ending.

Postlude: Fugue in C Major, BWV 531 by J. S Bach (1685-1750), his first major work for organ. Young Bach arrived in Arnstadt in 1703, accompanied a few times the congregation at Neue Kirche (which is now named Bachkirche) and secured his first job as a church organist. His future wife, Maria Barbara Bach might have been in the audience as he played this piece full of life and energy, filling the sanctuary with joyful harmonies and rhythms never heard before.
